EXPERTISE.

Dr Reynolds was first listed in the International Book of Who's Who in 2006. As the only Australian to hold Senior Staff positions with both the US Senate and Congress during the 1980s, Dr Reynolds received a Presidential Commendation for an outstanding contribution to American Government. He has also been the Executive Officer for the NSW Minister for Public Works, Roads, Ports and Darling Harbour, and the Executive Director for the Sydney World Trade Centre.

At Claremont Graduate University, one of America's most prestigious universities, Dr Reynolds studied Political Science-Philosophy, Government, Constitutional Law and Ethics with several famous educators including; Peter Drucker, Al Louch, Christopher Levy, and Gerry Jordan. Dr Reynolds was a Claremont Fellow receiving full scholarship for his PhD program.

His broad experience and education has given Dr Reynolds a grounding as a professional in business management, politics and education. He is the author of "Global Logic: The Challenges of Globalisation for SE Asian Business" in 2002 and "In the Shadow of the Crown" in 2015. In 2020 he had a series of poetry books for children published and is currently completing a rewrite of Australian History.

Dr Reynolds' unique education program for increasing learning ability in children, developed between 2003-2009, led to recognition of his Reynold Learning program in the Oxford-Cambridge Guide to Global Education and Skills as among the top 200 programs in the world for innovative education. His experience as a teacher, professor, business manager and political strategist, are balanced with a life of social concern and friendship with people in the countries where he has lived.

“With appreciation to Chris and Joan Reynolds and best wishes”

President Ronald Reagan

“Reynolds is an intelligent, industrious, dedicated and highly motivated young man. He is self-starting in his work, self-directing of its progress, and self-demanding that it be of high standard. He has excellent facility in both oral and written communication and has demonstrated his capacity for independent, original and thorough research.”

George Blair, Chairman of the Graduate Faculty in Government, Claremont University, California.

“If we had more professional staff working for the Congress with your ability and commitment, I believe solutions to problems like substance abuse would be more easily attained.”

Abigail J. Healy, The White House, Washington D.C.

“One of the pleasures of being a United States Congressman is to be in a position to write letters of reference for persons such as Christopher Reynolds. I have found him to be a man of convictions and my interactions with him have been consistently stimulating.”

Congressman Tony Hall, United States Congress.

“I have the highest regard for his intellect, loyalty and dedication to his work and to those for whom and with whom he is employed. He has proven to be a good team worker and highly co-operative in resolving difficult and contentious issues.”

Les MacDonald, General Manager, Maritime Services Board of NSW, Australia.

“Christopher is a constant thinker, weighing up and assessing situations carefully. He has written important articles that are accepted by the daily papers and provided commentary on issues for the Newcastle television. I have no hesitation in recommending Christopher as a person who ... always brings the result of a disciplined mind to bear on whatever he does.”

Dr. Uniting Dean Drayton, President, Uniting Church of Australia

“I have found Christopher to be a highly intelligent man with great vision and the ability to plan and organise programs and events. I would recommend Christopher to any position which could make use of his many skills and talents.”

Helen Stevenson, Mitre-10 Stores Manager, Australia

“I was impressed with his knowledge of American politics and invited him to become a regular contributor to the program I was producing for NBN Television in Newcastle. I do not hesitate to recommend him to any employer fortunate enough to secure his services.”

Anna Manzoney, Producer, "Good Morning", NBN Television
